Introduction

Demonstrating you have taken time to research a company before you apply for a job or start a work placement, shows the employer you are not only interested but can help you stand out from the crowd. Conducting research also helps you to be prepared and more confident entering or engaging with a company and strangers for the first time.

In completing this module you will:

- Learn how to search for company information to ensure you have sound knowledge
- Increase your confidence by formulating questions to ask the employer
